This Sunday at KCC!

This Sunday we will wrap up our series, "Body Building," looking at 1 Corinthians 14:1-25 (for those of you who like to look ahead). Spiritual gifts are an interesting study in Scripture and sometimes leave more questions for us than answers. That is, of course, if you focus on the gifts as opposed to the giver and the purpose of the gifts. That purpose is to glorify God and build up or edify His church.

The first week we "Prepared the body," the second week we "Focused the body," the third week we "Fueled the body," and this Sunday we will wrap up the series with "Unleashing the body." Come hang out with us and bring a friend. ~ Andy B.

Who Do I Remind You Of?

By Sara Blasko, Children's Ministry Director

Over memorial weekend we made a quick trip to Georgia for my niece's graduation. And by quick...I mean quick! We left Thursday after work and school and left Sunday afternoon. On Friday I got to go into my sister's school and help her clean up her classroom for an hour or so and meet some of her co-workers.

I was so excited to be there to get to see where she works and meet the people that she works with, but she was so excited to introduce me to her friends. We would meet someone in the hallway and my sister would announce proudly, "This is my sister!" I was teasing her because she was making such a big deal about me that I felt like a celebrity! The overwhelming thing that I heard from everyone I met in Georgia was how similar Lisa and I are. Like we would be talking for a couple of minutes and then they would be all freaked out and say, 'YOU SOUND JUST LIKE LISA!'

Friday night I went with my nephew to pick up some tents and dishes and supplies from some of Lisa's friends houses. The first house we went to the woman said the same thing. She said if she closed her eyes I sounded just like Lisa. Just then her son and husband pulled up and my nephew said, "just prank my friend and make him think you are my mom!" So...of course I did! I said, "Hi Jacob! Do you like my hair? I dyed it blonde." He was like "What? You aren't Ms. Lisa...wait... You sound like Ms. Lisa...What's going on?" It was pretty funny, but got me thinking about why people would say that.

It's true, we have similar expressions and mannerisms, we even will say the same thing at the same time. In fact, if we lived closer to each other, it might be annoying but because we are far apart it has a certain novelty. I also kind of loved that everyone thought that because I love my sister. If someone said that I sounded or looked like someone who wasn't someone I respected I wouldn't like that at all.

It also made me hyper aware when I was speaking because I know people were thinking of the similarities, and it made me wonder what God and the world thinks about how I act and speak. Do they hear me and instantly think...Oh that is just what Jesus would say? or is that the last person they would compare me to?

In Genesis it says that we are created in God's image, but is that what people see when they see me? My hope is that the answer is always yes...my truth is that the answer is not always yes. I need to work on being a better reflection of Christ's love. John 13:35 says "By this everyone will know that you are my disciples, if you love one another."

I know that people can tell I am my sisters' sister and I'm proud of that...but I will rejoice if they know that I am His disciple! Join me this week in trying to reflect Jesus' love to others...so that there is no question who we belong to!
