How Long Is A Day In Genesis 1?

By Tim Severance, Associate Minister

WHAT IS THE MEANING OF "DAY" IN GENESIS 1?

There is much debate about the meaning of "day" in the Bible when it refers to the days of creation. This is happening in order to synchronize the theory that the earth is billions of years old and then it took millions of years for evolution. And while it may be convenient to attempt to twist the scripture, I find it unnecessary.

First, let's look at the "long day" argument. The idea that the "days" in Genesis were not really 24-hour periods.

- Since the sun isn't created until day four, there is no way to delineate the first three days of creation. They could be millions of years.
- Jesus says in 2 Peter 3:8 that with the Lord a day is like a thousand years and a thousand years is like a day. God is not confined by time and could have taken as long as he wanted.
- A day can mean an indefinite period of time like the "day of the Lord." or a day can also refer to a period of history like "back in my day..." Perhaps one of these is used in the Genesis account.

My response to each of these points is below:

- a. It is true that the sun, moon, and stars aren't created until the fourth day, however, at the conclusion of each day God states that there was "evening" and there was "morning" delineating a 24-hour day with traditional Jewish markings of beginning in the evening and going until the next morning to define the day.
- b. Yes, the Lord is not confined by time, nor space, nor matter. But the context of this verse refers to the second coming of Jesus Christ. There is no correlation between the definition of a "day" nor connection to the Genesis account.
- c. Yes, the English word "day" can be taken to mean longer than a 24-hour period. However, as we're about to see the Hebrew word "yom" translated "day" in our English Bibles is not that liberal in usage.

The days of creation were 24 hour periods of time. And here's why.

1. Each of the days is delineated by the terms "evening" and "morning." The Jewish day began in the evening and lasted 24 hours until the morning had passed and evening came again. If each of the days of creation were not 24 hours, God would not have stated this with each one of them.
2. God refers back to the days of creation while giving the ten commandments in Exodus 20:11 when He says, "For in six days the Lord made the heavens and the earth, the sea, and all that is in them, but he rested on the seventh day." There is no reason to think Moses is not referring to a literal day.
3. Finally, the Hebrew word "yom" which means "day" in English is used 359 times in Scripture and always refers to an ordinary day.

It seems reasonable that in the Genesis creation account each day refers to a 24-hour period of time. If we chose to believe otherwise, we would also need to deal with the issue of death and decay before the fall in Genesis 3 when sin and death entered the world according to the Bible. This opens up a whole other topic of discussion.

Calling all kids Kindergarten - 5th grade!

Join us THIS SUNDAY at 11:00am in the Lower Level for KCC's children's program - Kidmo's "Johnny Rogers"!

Here's what we'll learn this week in Kidmo!

THEME: Follow God's Direction for your life.

LEARN IT

God always knows what He is doing so you can follow His direction for your life, even if it seems confusing. Peter followed God's direction for his life even if it was a bit scary.

LOOK IT UP

Acts 12:1-19

LINK IT

Following God's direction can be tough but we can trust God so we need to follow His direction. There are millions of Christians who suffer around the world for Jesus. They are willing to follow God's direction even if it costs them their lives.

Pray for Christians in the following countries: China, India, Iraq, Pakistan, Tibet, Egypt, & Somalia.

COMPASS POINT

"God's direction is life protection."

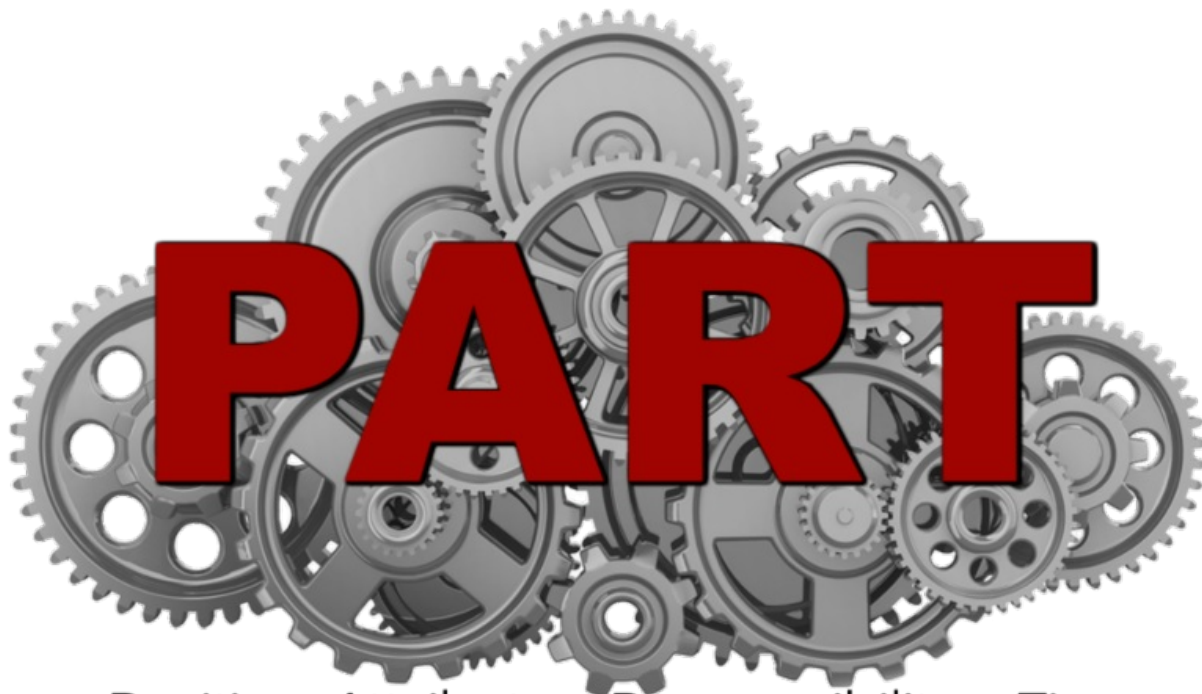

LIVE IT OUT

God gives us direction for our lives in a couple of different ways. He has given us the Bible. He gives us direction through answered prayer and some- times we even get direction from God when we are here at church.

God has a direction for your life and even if it seems scary, He knows what He's doing and we can trust Him.

MEMORY MAX

"Show me the path where I should walk, O LORD; point out the right road for me to follow." -Psalm 25:4
